

Justin's Pick: The Last Airbender (2010)

Genre: Fantasy

Language: English

Runtime: The longest 103 minutes of your life

What makes it so bad?

The Last Airbender accomplishes one major victory - it makes you appreciate the greatness of the original series by being everything it isn't. I don't find too many movies intolerable or offensive, but blatantly mispronouncing key characters' names earns you that right.

Michael's Pick: Percy Jackson and the Olympians: The Lightning Thief (2010)

Genre: Fantasy

Language: English

Runtime: Long enough for you to reconsider watching this instead of reading the books.

What makes it so bad?

The main characters have to travel to the literal Gates of Hell, the entrance to which is in Hollywood. If that isn't the perfect metaphor for what happened with this movie, I don't know what is.

Aaron's Pick: Man of Steel (2013)

Genre: Action

Language: English

Runtime: 143 buildings destroyed by Superman... I mean minutes.

What makes it so bad?

A Superman movie that manages to get every single aspect of the character wrong.

Kristina's Pick: Love Actually (2003)

Genre: Romance/Comedy

Language: English

Runtime: 135 Minutes

What makes it so bad?

I just truly don't get the hype.

Vinny's Pick: Robinhood: Men in Tights (1993)

Genre: Comedy

Language: English

Runtime: 104 Minutes

What makes it so bad?

Christine likes it.

Christine's Pick: Transformers: Dark of the Moon (2011)

Genre: Sci-Fi/Action

Language: Incoherent

Runtime: 154 minutes.
154 MINUTES!?

What makes it so bad?

Vinny likes it.

Shanna's Pick: Rosemary's Baby (1968)

Genre: Horror

Language: English

Runtime: 138 Minutes

Two hours of watching a woman get gaslit by her husband and a bunch of nosy Satanists. By the time the devil baby shows up, you're almost rooting for him. If I found out my neighbors were part of a Satanic cult, I'd be moving out faster than you can say "demonic pregnancy." Who needs that kind of drama?

Christina's Pick: The Great Gatsby (2013)

Genre: Drama

Language: English

Runtime: 143 Minutes

What makes it so bad?

I had a headache after fifteen minutes.